Ski Size Chart 2026/27

Ski length by height and ability, with kids' sizes

Short answer: Most ski makers put a beginner on skis about chin height, an intermediate between chin and nose, and an advanced skier at head height or longer. For a 5'8" (173 cm) intermediate skier that is 168 to 175 cm.

Fit check

- Stand the ski on its tail next to you. Chin height is a beginner length, nose to forehead is intermediate, top of head or above is advanced (Atomic, K2, Nordica, Head, evo).
- Read the sidecut radius. Under 16 m turns short and suits carving; 17 to 22 m is all-mountain; over 22 m is for big mountain and powder (evo).
- Rocker lets you go longer. A rockered tip shortens the ski's effective edge, so wide all-mountain and powder skis are skied longer than a full-camber carving ski (Nordica, K2).
